For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

RAN AWAY from Peter Graham, living near Middleburg, Loudoun county, Va. on the night of the 25th of March last, a very likely Negro girl, named ANN, purchased of Wm. She is of a yellow complexion, round faced, thick lips, with large staring eyes, and rather delicate featured for a slave;—small feet, a tolerable ready speech, and mild with it; about 18 years of age, middle size, and very well made; rather thick, about 5 feet high from appearance. FUNERAL OF LT. JOHN BROOKS.

On Friday last, the remains of Lieut John Brooks, who fell in the battle on Lake Erie, were interred in the new burial ground, upon the glacis of Fort Shelby, within the military reserve of this city.

The ceremony was attended with military honors suited to the rank of the deceased.

The body was escorted by a military corps, and preceded by the Rev. Messrs. Monteith and Larned. The pall supported by six lieutenants, with scarfs.—Lieut. col. Smith, and the officers of the 5th U. S. regt. followed as mourners—flanked by marshals. Then succeeded major general Macomb, governor Cass, and the civil, judicial and municipal officers of the territory and city, citizens and strangers, and the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the army. The procession was solemn and sublime. The funeral service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Larned.

The following elegiac lines, on the occasion, are from the pen of captain Whiting, of the 5th regiment.

Too long on lonely isles neglected,
Mark'd by no stone, thy dust has slept,
By humble turf alone protected,
O'er which rude Time each year has swept.

Ere many summers there had revell'd,
Decking thy grave with wild flowers fair,
The humid earth, depress'd and levell'd,
Had left no index vestige there.

Still had the wave, around that dashes—
Scene of thy fate—the story told,
And 'gainst the isle that held thy ashes,
In seeming fondness ceaseless roll'd.

But now with kindred heroes lying,
Thou shalt repose on martial ground,
Thy country's banner o'er thee flying,
Her castles and her camps around.

And friendship there shall leave its token,
And beauty there in tears may melt,
For still the charm may rest unbroken,
So many tender hearts have felt.

Then rest, lamented youth! in honor,
Erie shall preserve thy name;
For those who fell 'neath Perry's banner,
Must still survive in Perry's fame.

A letter received in the city of New-York, mentions that the new Spanish corvette ship ——, formerly the General Scott, of about 32 guns, which recently sailed from that port, manned with a Spanish crew, to convoy some merchant vessels to Porto Rico, and thence proceed to Porto Cavello, has been taken with the whole of her convoy, by a Patriot Privateer. The letter states, that at the first fire from the Privateer, the crew of the Corvette all deserted their quarters, and she was taken by boarding.

ELOQUENCE.

Mr. Speaker—My country having honored me with a seat in this August assembly—thus called to participate in the great deeds of its ultimate transactions—I am overwhelmed with the dignity of the weight of the responsibility of my honorable situation—I consider the duty of the character of a representative of the people to be—in—itself—a great function and duty, without considering extraneous considerations—The bill before you, Mr. Speaker, I consider a bill, all things considered, of considerable importance—in itself—and—as it involves considerations of no inconsiderable consideration I feel impressed with the duty in my capacity as a legislator, to which my country has called me, to duly consider it in all its bearings before I make up my mind, in conformity to reason and justice and the nature of things, on a subject so momentary and important as the bill on your table—An awful precipice raises its August head before us—it becomes us to pause before we leap—I move that the bill lie on the table.

Speaker. The question before the house is: Shall the bill pass?

Member—I move that it sh'n't pass.

Fontenelle being asked by a Lord one day at Versailles, 'what difference there was between a clock and a woman,' replied, 'a clock seems to point out the hours, and a woman to make us forget them.'

ALEXANDRIA:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1818.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Friday, January 30, 1818.

The house of representatives, resolved into a committee of the whole, again resumed the consideration of the Fugitive Bill, when a motion to recommit the bill to the same committee to which the memorial of the annual meeting of the Society of Friends at Baltimore had been referred, was made by Mr. Rich—for the purpose, as he stated, of so amending the bill as to prevent the rights of free persons of color from being violated. This motion was opposed by Mr. Pindall, Mr. Smith of Md, Mr. Rhea and Mr. Livermore, and was supported by Mr. Maclay, and was negatived. It would be not uninteresting merely but tiresome to your readers to detail the various alterations and amendments which continued successively to come and then depart, like the spectres in Macbeth, till darkness almost fell upon the sitting, and most of which were negatived, as was a motion made by Mr. Maclay to postpone the bill to Monday. A part of the house disclosed occasionally strong marks of impatience by motions to adjourn, made, alas! in vain. At length the question of engrossing the bill was put by yeas and nays, and carried—Yeas 86—Nays 55.

The bill will be read a third time this morning.

The President sent a message to congress; but by the time the discussions on the Fugitive Bill were ended, it was too late to read it.

We published yesterday a poetical satire on the new city of Blakely, in the Alabama territory. From the following prose account, which we extract from the National Intelligencer, it would appear that the author of the satire had availed himself of a term in literature denominated a poetical license.

A letter received by a gentleman in this city from a friend at Blakely, in Alabama, under date of Dec. 9, gives a flattering account of the settlement and improvement of that country. The writer is confident that Blakely will possess greater advantages for business than Mobile; a confidence which is very much at war with the views we have heard expressed on that subject. The writer is a merchant, who has sold within two days dry goods to the amount of 4000 dollars. This is certainly driving a brisk trade. 'The crop of cotton (says the writer) is very fine this season; price from 26 to 28 cents. Notwithstanding the number of vessels and great quantity of goods that have arrived here, we think there will not be sufficient to last until another season. the population up the river being beyond all calculation, and the Huntsville and Tennessee merchants depending on us for most of their supplies.

Mobile, Dec. 6.

PRODUCE IN THE INTERIOR.

Cotton, the staple of our territory, has already been brought to market; some very fine has descended the Tombigbee. Our streets for most of the last week have been crowded with four-horse waggons from the Chicesawhay settlement, which has given an air of business to our town similar to the northern cities. We hope that more attention will be paid to roads in the interior in future. The citizens of this place may depend upon considerable increase of business, in a ratio proportioned to the improvement of the roads.

IMPROVEMENT.

We are happy to hear strangers from the upper country express their astonishment and satisfaction at the very great improvement of Mobile in a few months. Those who have only been absent three months, declare that it is not the same place. Buildings are going up as rapidly as the number of workmen will admit of. We think we speak within bounds when we say that 30 mechanics whose trades are connected with the erection of buildings, would receive immediate employ at high wages. Many more drays would receive constant employ; and we know no article that is so much wanting as good servants. We think there are as many merchants as can do business to advantage. Lawyers we have enough!! A good physician and Surgeon we think would do well; and do sincerely hope we shall soon have an intelligent Minister of the Gospel.

Among other disadvantages that we labor under in not having a delegate in congress, is the non-passage of a law establishing a maritime court at Mobile;—scarcely a day passes that there is not some necessity for a court having maritime jurisdiction.

From the American Daily Advertiser.

GERMAN EMIGRANTS.

We have been favored with a perusal of a statement of facts relative to the Dutch passenger ship April, Captain De Groot, which arrived below about two weeks ago from the Texel, and is now vending her remaining passengers in the state of Delaware.

The ship sailed from Amsterdam with only 233 passengers, under command of Captain Semit, who had a knowledge of our coast, and under a contract to proceed to the port of Philadelphia; having dropped down the Texel, the provisions were objected to by the captain, a quarrel ensued between him and the owner, and he was displaced. It was at this time the infamy of the transaction began to develope itself. Three more vessels were lying in the Roads with passengers, in a miserable situation, diseased and covered with vermin—these were conveyed on board the April, and all obliged to sign a new contract drawn up by the former Captain Semit, who now appeared on board as Agent or Supercargo, leaving it optional with him to proceed to any port in the U. States.

From the very crowded state of the ship and badness of the provisions, the pestilence spread so rapidly that the Dutch Government interfered and they were landed on an Island in the Texel, where upwards of 400 died—of 1200 souls embarked, only about five hundred reached the shores of the Delaware. The ship is said to be 800 tons burthen. We are happy to find the National Legislature has noticed the subject and expect something will be done to restrain a cupidity so infamous and disgraceful to humanity.

The art of Lithography, or making impressions from stone, instead of copper-plates or similar means, has arrived to so great perfection in France, that the government has thought proper to place it under the same regulations as other presses. By simply writing a letter, or piece of music, or making a drawing in the ordinary way, with a peculiar ink fit for the purpose, the design may be transferred to the stone without further preparation, and is immediately ready to print off thousands of proofs all equally perfect. This quality of Lithography has, it seems, procured its admission into the public offices; so that sixty or seventy thousand proclamations, or other papers in the autograph of the minster may be taken off and dispatched before a copper-plate could even have been engraved. The rival exertions of Count Lasteyrie and M. Engelmann, have been of the greatest service to an art, which has more than once been taken up with avidity, and afterwards abandoned as hopeless. A series of these prints is now in a course of publication by Count Lasteyrie, and which are said to possess great spirit and fidelity. One of these, a pen-and-ink drawing of considerable merit was traced on the stone upwards of 16 years since: a proof that lithographic designs may be kept like those of copper without injury, as long as may be required.

From the United States Gazette.

Those of our readers who are acquainted with the recent literature and recent law cases of England may find some amusement in the following article, extracted from the London Sun. Every such reader will perceive that the writer has attempted to raise a laugh at the expense of lord Erskine, who is the alleged author of Armata, and who was, not long since, actually fined to a considerable amount in one of the British courts for selling brooms without a license contrary to law.

MR. EDITOR.

A printer's devil brought me the other day a sheet of the most admirable work, which I am about publishing, and for which, by the by, I take this opportunity of soliciting a good word or two in the Sun. As I seldom visit my garret, I inquired of young Nick the literary news. "Nothing strange," says he, "except that we are going to publish a third edition of Armata, with additions and alterations." "Oh! then," says I, "it is not a new title page to a 'revised and corrected' edition, with all the original errors in the context?" "Lord love you," replied Nick, "it is almost spick and span a new thing of his lordship's; but I must be off, master Peter, and you must be smart with your copy, or we shall be all at a stand." So away went Nick;—and in unfolding of his parcel, what should I find its envelope to be but a proof sheet of this actual Armata? I thought you would like it for an odd column, so here it is. I suspect it is somewhere in the 61st chapter of the Second Part; but your readers may amuse themselves with finding "its sticking place."

I am, sir,
Your very obed't serv't.
PETER PATCH.

ARMATA.

But instead of discussing any longer what ought to be done in London, I hasten to tell the reader of true history what is done in Swaloab. My business is to narrate voyages, not to preach morality;—and through the whole of my two volumes not the remotest parallel can be traced between Armata and England. So careful have I been to avoid such an inference, that I have uniformly, as the reader sees, italicised their differences. Nobody can suspect this to be irony, a delicate weapon, which I do not pretend ability to manage, as indeed is evinced by * * * * * * *

[At this part of the manuscript the chapter is unluckily effaced by "the Chapter of Accidents," and not having the remains of the Old Pauper's Chymical Bottle at our elbow, we were obliged to give up a few pages.]

* * * * * * * * took me to one of their minor courts of judicature; six of which, he said, were in Swaloab, for the repression of disorders and the apprehension of offenders. There was little ceremony or show at this tribunal, where the magistrates were seated at a plain table, in their every-day wigs and pantaloons. A crowd of spectators surrounded them, while revenue officers, constables, clerks and thief catchers—a tribe of persons whom we have happily no occasion for in England—were moving in and out of the room. I looked round for the offenders whom these vigilant guardians of the law had apprehended during the preceding night, when Morven informed me that a question far more interesting than petty cases of street quarrels and robberies was about to be heard. "Observe," said he, "that sharp looking middle sized man, with a scratch brown wig on his head, and a broad green riband across his shoulders, sitting near the magistrates." I had indeed noticed him; but supposing him to be one of the judges, had paid his wig or his riband very little attention. "A complaint," continued Morven, "has been lodged against him for evading the revenue law, and is now to be heard."

Different as every thing which I had seen in this new world was from the habits and manners of England, my astonishment now was extreme. I could scarcely believe that Morven was not sporting with my simplicity, when he described an accused person sitting familiarly by his judges, and listening to their counsels. "He is a lord," whispered my friend, "and lords in Armata are entitled to a seat on the bench of judgment, even when their own causes are under discussion."

"You are indeed,' replied I, "a singular people. Our lords in England have no such privilege; and, at all events, we have no such lords as the species before me."

"Perhaps not," rejoined Morven;—"the nobleman whom you see was a cadet of an ancient family in the north part of Armata, called Tartcny, the natives whereof flock daily into Swaloab, and become intelligible by degrees. He was bred to the bar, and soon became a popular lawyer. How it may be in your world I know not; but with us, a good deal of eloquence, and a very little learning, carry a man on wonderfully, especially if he becomes a systematick opposer of the government, and the vindicator of all who endeavor to subvert it. A few years ago," continued my friend, "when the sovereign was compelled to change his ministers, this personage stepped into place, and occupied the highest post of the law. A judge who, right or wrong, must decide against one party, can never please both; in his elevation, therefore, he managed as well as the wisest of his predecessors, and one party was always pleased with his decisions wrong or right."

Moral possibilities, I acknowledged, were the same in England as in Armata, and that our history presented no instance of a chancellor pleasing both plaintiff and defendant. I was about making many other excellent observations on this radical reform, which would have swelled my second volume famously, when Morven proceeded to inform me that this learned judge had since lost his office, but had retained his title; it being the custom in Armata—very different from that in England—that the title, which is conferred in consequence of the office, shall continue after the office is withdrawn.

The hearing was now commenced of his lordship's case, who, I found, had exchanged the business of judge for that of a pedlar, and, in the genuine spirit of Tartanian foresight, had helped out a scanty pittance of six thousand pounds a year by hawking about the streets and suburbs of Swaloab a species of twiggs, artificially bound up for the purpose of sweeping rooms, not unlike those familiar utensils which in England we term besoms. They are applied also in Armata to the scarification of the posterior parts of idle children. I told Morven that I had some recollection of this stimulant process having been experimented upon myself, though not with sufficient success to warrant its repetition.

The sale, however, of these domestic and disciplinarian articles is prohibited by the Armatan law, unless a license is taken out by the itinerant vendor, which license, totally contrary to the custom of England; must be paid for by a stipulated sum. But his lordship, fancying himself to be still learned in the law, had interpreted it in his own favor, and insomuch as the materials grew on his own estate, and were manufactured by his own servants, he assumed the right of carrying them about for sale. The magistrates, nevertheless, thought otherwise, and convicted his lordship in the usual penalties. This decision he took in high dudgeon; and I verily believe it would have gone hard with him if he had not consoled himself with a pun, and declared that their judgment was pronounced under a sweeping clause. The magistrates smiled—the constables laughed—the peer chuckled—and so the business ended in perfect good humor.

As we were retiring, Morven asked me how such a case would have been managed in England. "My dear sir," said I rather pe tishly, "I must put an extinguisher on this reference, which you so eternally make to the customs of my beloved country. In England it were easier to find a noble pedlar than a peddling noble. Our peers neither make nor sell besoms; and if one could be found among us with such a * * * * * * * *."

[Here the manuscript becomes completely illegible.]

From a London paper.

A singular and extraordinary discovery in natural history was made in this town about a fortnight ago. As one of the stonemasons, who is in the employ of the Dock Trustees, was dressing on the sea-wall of the Regent's Dock, a huge stone, brought from the Weston Point quarry, and after he had broken a considerable thickness from its outside, he discovered in a hole of small diameter, which was partially filled with clay, and a loamy sand, three bees in a state of inanimation, to the inexpressible astonishment of himself and his fellow workmen, many of whom were witnesses of this strange phenomenon. The foreman of the works put them into his handkerchief where they remained for several hours afterwards;—but while exhibiting his newly resuscitated strangers, two of them flew away, and he voluntarily gave the third its liberty. These bees are described to us as having been of the drone species.—We have questioned the person as to the truth of so singular a statement, and he affirms that they were found in the interior of the solid stone, as we have described above, without any perceptible communication without. Toads, and other similar animals have been found in a living state, in situations equally extraordinary; but we never heard before of any of the winged tribe being incased in the heart of a solid stone. The discovery is singular, and will furnish matter of curious speculation to the naturalists and the philosopher.

ADDITIONAL.

The following statement will probably elucidate "this strange phenomenon."—As soon as we heard of the above circumstance, which occurred on Saturday, the 1st inst. we went on the Tuesday morning following to inspect the stone in which the bees, as they are called, had been lodged, but it had about an hour before been put into a barge for the purpose of being taken to another part of the dock. In our enquiries of Mr. Dowell the master mason, the person who had the bees in his possession, whether any crevice had been observed on the outside of the stone, by which they could have gained access to the abode in which they were found, he could give us no very certain information on this point, neither negatively or affirmatively.—But he shewed us a stone of the exact description of the one in question, in which there was what they called a "sand hole," filled with loomy sand, which extended from the surface to the depth of ten inches into the stone; this loomy sand it is conjectured, would after being exposed to the air, become sufficiently dry to be capable of removing itself on the least change of situation in the stone, and thereby excavating a hole such as had been found in the stone where the bees were discovered. As soon as we had ascertained this fact, our wonder in the preceding statement ceased, as we think that of our readers will also after they have read this article—this will also account for our not having before noticed the circumstance.—

The stone from which the bees were taken, had, we understand been for some weeks laying at the quarry for transmission to this place; in the early part of September we had some sharp frost, and it is not improbable that the bees had sheltered themselves in the cavern in which the masons found them, from the inclemency of the weather at that time. When they were first discovered, we understand they were in a state of torpor, but the warmth of Mr. Dowell's pocket, in which they had been placed completely reanimated them.

Scene 3. A SPIRITED TOURNAMENT. Timour and Zorilda enter and seat themselves on thrones to witness the Combat of Kerim & Sanballat,

who at that moment enter the LISTS ON HORSEBACK. Kerim's Horse takes part in the combat, and drags Sanballat to the ground. Kerim dismounts and proposes to renew the combat on foot—the horses are led away and the fight begins. Kerim falls and loses his sword; his rival rushes to despatch him: at that instant,

The Last Scene represents TIMOUR'S FORTRESS BY MOONLIGHT. A TREMENDOUS CATARACT & WATERFALL over which is an arched bridge. One side of the stage represents the EXTERIOR of TIMOUR'S FORTRESS. A variety of smaller Towers and Terraces appear in the perspective.

During this scene, the Georgians and Mingrelians engage the Tartars on horse and foot. Timour himself ON HORSEBACK appears and encourages his troops—he becomes personally engaged, and is dismounted—he is pursued and not having time to enter a PORTCULLIS leading to the interior of his castle, he climbs the battlements, and reaches in safety the TURRET'S TOP—he brings forth Zorilda and threatens to destroy her unless Agib, who has escaped to the Georgians, is restored to him—she breaks from him and runs to the bridge, from which she leaps into the water—Agib on horseback rushes after her.—The Georgians with a BATTERING-RAM make a breach in Timour's castle—ALL THE HORSES ENTER—At the conclusion of the General Engagement, Agib having recovered his mother, returns with her on horseback. TIMOUR IS OVERTHROWN, but Zorilda spares his life at the intercession of Agib and Oglou.

To the Flour and Rice Millers OF THE UNITED STATES.

GENTLEMEN,—It appears that many have refused to pay for license to use my improvements in the art of manufacturing flour, and in lessening the labor in rice mills, waiting the decision of the United States' courts; while many others have paid freely the sums I demanded for my license; there can exist no reason why some should pay and others be exempt. There has already been a sufficient number of decisions establishing the law, that each infringer is liable to pay treble my actual damages, which cannot be rated at less than the value of the use of my property during the infringement. I have expended the greatest part of a long, arduous, and indefatigable life in study and exertions to invent and introduce into useful operation several important and highly useful improvements, from which great benefits are derived to the users, and I could have put in operation many more equally useful, but was prevented by the unjustifiable opposition, wasting the profits of those in operation, which I had intended to apply to put others in operation which I had discovered; but which now lay dormant, to my great mortification and the public injury. I come into the courts claiming remuneration for my time and labor—the great expenses that I have incurred in advertising repeatedly over the United States, and in my agents travelling for many years to make the utility of the improvements known, and to instruct millwrights to make, and millers to use them. The law contemplates that I shall receive ample remuneration, and by it I was encouraged to risk the great expenses. I have repeatedly published that the price of my license for the remainder of the term should be, the full price of the labor and boarding saved by the use of my improvements in one year only, with lawful interest until paid; but to those who infringed my rights, and refused to pay when called on, I would, beginning with the year ending January 22, 1813, count the sum saved in labor and boarding during the last year (equal to the first price) as a new sum becoming due, and running on interest also; and so on, the 22d day of January in each and every year thereafter a new sum saved in labor and boarding becomes due, and runs on interest until license be purchased, demanding the interest only on all these sums, leaving the principal in the hands of the users; which is the least I can receive of them to meet the expenses which they have compelled me to incur. The above are now the only terms on which my agents are instructed to grant licenses, and they are instructed to institute suits against all infringers without giving them another call.

Those who wish to purchase licenses may apply to John Love, esq. Buckland, Prince William county, or to capt. John Moody, Richmond, Va.

OLIVER EVANS.

NOTE.—Persons using Mr. Evans' improvements, or parts of them, unpaid for, will be sued if they do not discharge the claim on application. Mr. William H. Alexander has, under my authority from Mr. Evans, been empowered to receive payments and deliver licenses to use his improvements. Payments, therefore, made to him, John Moody, or myself, will alone be valid, and save the expense of suit and treble damages to the defendants. JOHN LOVE.

Sully for Sale.

THIS Estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty two miles from Alexandria, and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry, Plaister of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and those now untilled are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed: the outhouses are conveniently situated, and the whole have been lately thoroughly repaired and painted. The farm houses, which are all nearly new, are expensive and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate for an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincumbered.

A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds and the crops of the present year if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.

Application may be made to the subscriber, living on the premises, next the post-office at Pleasant Valley, in Fairfax.

Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills,

Universally known and used throughout the United States as a family medicine. The fame of these pills has become so great, that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this, the proprietors have procured a stereotype label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Bilious Pills," and on the end of the label the words, "Samuel Lee, patenter, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said label on them the purchaser may be apprised that they are counterfeit.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from Lee's Medicine Store, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of blood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric'l affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.
